"Five Presidents" provides a unique insider's perspective, shedding new light on the character and personality of the five men Mr. Hill protected, revealing their humanity in the face of grave decisions. Hill walked alongside Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, Richard M. Nixon, and Gerald R. Ford, seeing them through long, tumultuous times—the Cold War; the Cuban Missile Crisis; the assassinations of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, Jr., and Robert F. Kennedy; the Vietnam War; Watergate; and the resignations of Spiro Agnew and Richard M. Nixon.

Clint Hill will forever be remembered as the courageous Secret Service Agent who leapt onto the back of the presidential limousine in the midst of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, on November 22, 1963. His primary responsibility was the protection of First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy, and for his actions that day, Hill received the nation's highest civilian award for bravery. Hill rose through the ranks of the Secret Service to become the Assistant Director, responsible for all protective forces, having served five administrations—Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Ford. He remains in contact with the current U.S. Secret Service and is actively involved in training activities at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center.

Mr. Hill's co-author Lisa McCubbin is an award-winning journalist who has been a television news anchor and reporter for NBC, ABC, and CBS; hosted her own talk radio show; and spent more than five years in the Middle East as a freelance writer. McCubbin has collaborated with Clint Hill to write "Mrs. Kennedy and Me," a memoir of the four years he spent with Jacqueline Kennedy and "Five Days in November," the riveting moment-by-moment account of the days surrounding the assassination, alongside 170 remarkable photographs.
