

ADOMANI Provides Hybrid Transportation Solution To Alaska's Gastineau Guiding

ADOMANI, Inc., will supply Gastineau Guiding with a hybrid shuttle bus in early 2016

Orange, CA (PRWEB) December 17, 2015 -- ADOMANI, Inc., a provider of complete zero-emission fleet solutions, will supply Gastineau Guiding with a hybrid shuttle bus in early 2016. The premier Alaskan tour company will be using the custom-built E-450 StarCraft bus to ferry passengers from the cruise ship docks in Juneau to their nearby whale watching, glacier hiking and rainforest trail excursions in a more environmentally-friendly manner.

“We’re excited to be providing Gastineau Guiding with a fleet solution that allows guests to experience the rare beauty of Alaska in a vehicle intended to preserve that which they value,” said Jim Reynolds, CEO of ADOMANI, and a 14-year veteran in the school, commercial and transit bus industry. “We hope to continue to reduce harmful greenhouse gas emissions for this high-traffic and environmentally sensitive tourist area while providing long-term and resilient transportation solutions to fleets of all sizes with our adaptive all-electric and hybrid transportation solutions.”

Using the Ford E-450 platform, ADOMANI employed its proprietary conversion process to augment the OEM drivetrain with electric technology. The converted shuttle bus is capable of traveling 40 to 50 miles per charge when in neutral.

“This is a great step for the tour industry in Alaska to continue to keep our environment pristine and beautiful,” said Bob Janes, owner of Gastineau Guiding. “I have been looking for a company like ADOMANI to work with in making tour vehicles in Alaska emission-free. If this first conversion proves to be successful, I intend to convert most if not all of my 22 vehicle fleet to emission-free over the next few years. My goal is to keep Alaska pure and beautiful.”
