

Used 2003 Chevy Cavalier Engine Now for Sale in I4 GM Inventory at Used Engines Company Website

Used 2003 Chevy Cavalier engine is now listed online for sale through the GM inventory marketed by the Got Engines company. This engine series is offered as 2.3 and 2.4 I4 builds.

Akron, OH (PRWEB) January 03, 2014 -- General Motors terminated production of the Chevy Cavalier in 2005 after more than 20 years of U.S. sales. Engines that are available for replacement inside these vehicles are now for sale through the Got Engines company. This company is selling the used 2003 Chevy Cavalier engine inventory in 2.3 and 2.4 I4 builds at <http://www.gotengines.com/chevrolet/rebuilt-chevy-engines.html>.

The company acquisition of these motors is one new development in the used engines inventory. These GM motors are authentic units that are sourced direct through company partners. The 2.3 and 2.4 series engines now for sale are standard and GM Quad-4 units used for the 1995 to 2005 Cavalier vehicles in the U.S.

The GotEngines.com company website has been updated to feature the new pricing and inventory levels for these used replacement engines. Buyers can research the available motors online when using the lookup tool positioned on the company homepage. All new and existing inventory is now posted inside this finder tool for potential buyers to review and compare all attached pricing.

"The Cavalier engines that are now added inside our used inventory feature the warranties that we've created to extend the useful life of each motor after purchase and shipment," said a source from the GotEngines.com company.

The Got Engines company extension of the warranty policies for General Motors engines and other automaker brands in stock is a new policy going forward to enhance quality levels for inventory for sale. These protection plans are fully described on the company website or more information can be obtained when calling company support staff.

"The limited warranty protection currently featured for each customer purchasing an engine online or offline is included with the free shipping policies we enabled earlier this year," the source included.

The GotEngines.com used engines resource is now featuring the new customer service phone number for U.S. buyers. This support number at 1-866-320-1065 is available during the standard hours of business to extend support options to offline researchers. All sales programs and other company policies can be explored when callers use this new resource.

About GotEngines.com

The GotEngines.com company remains one of the largest independent resources to find preowned condition engines from different automakers online. This company has created research solutions that are presented online that expedite engine research for all buyers. The GotEngines.com company website is continuously updated with daily inventory and automatic price changes. These services are in addition to the free shipping and 24 months of warranty coverage that each buyer receives when using this company as a North American engines supplier. Different inventory suppliers have joined the company network in 2013.

Contact Information

John Parks

GotEngines.com

<http://www.gotengines.com>

+1 (866) 320-1065 Ext: 3

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.