

Songster Creates Timely Song: Gas Pump Fever

*Cyril May and Jack McDonald Release Timely Song: Gas Pump Fever
Sing it While You Pump Your Gasoline*

Long Beach, CA (PRWEB) April 25, 2004 - Recalling the gas crisis twenty years ago, a songster has created a song timely for today: Cyril May's release "Gas Pump Fever" goes miles toward cheering us through the high prices and long lines:

"Gas pump fever in the gas pump line

This is gas pump fever time

And it doesn't have a vaccination for your behind

It's mighty catching and its pure hell

As the pain in your wallet will plainly tell

You got gas pump fever from waiting in the gas pump line"

A down to earth singer, and songwriter, Cyril May and his musical cohort Jack McDonald make a timely statement with "Gas Pump Fever", creating lyrics we sing along to, and Jack's lilting musical arrangements providing the cheerful flavor. Though they live half a world apart, Jack in Australia and Cyril in Southern California, the music they make together brings all of us closer. So while you're in line, sing along to "Gas Pump Fever" and perhaps it won't feel quite so bad.

"Gas Pump Fever" is only one of the great songs on Cyril May and Jack McDonald's CD "Off The Beaten Track". Listen to samples of their tunes on the web site: www.cyrilmay.com, and place your order online. For more information contact via postal mail at 266 Orizaba, Long Beach, CA 90803; 562/433-0734 or email at divingds@juno.com

Contact Information

Tina Janke

TJ CONSULTS INC.

<http://www.cyrilmay.com>

541-899-3931

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.