

Hybrid Performance Web

(PRWEB) June 23, 2001 -- Hybrid Performance released their public web site, www.hybridperformance.com. The site features two main areas for the Honda and Acura street racing enthusiast. The first area is a robust catalog, containing auto parts ranging from engine pistons and driving lights to shift knobs.

The second area of the web site offers a well-designed community environment that caters to the underground culture that drives this industry.

The community offers message boards, classifieds, and profiles. Featured content provides a snapshot into current industry-makers as well as up-coming regional events. Site members may submit pictures of a car to be featured on the site as within their profiles.

Hybrid Performance.com is a San Diego based company that specializes in providing high performance products and niche industry content to a unique and rapidly growing industry. Founders of the company offer extensive experience with building/supporting large Internet communities, with up-to-date functionality and design.

Contact Information

David Dieruf

Hybrid Performance

Http://www.hybridperformance.com

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.