Cherry Hill, N.J. (PRWEB) April 29, 2016 -- NFI, a leading supply chain solutions provider, will participate in the Transportation and Logistics Council Annual Conference, May 2 through May 4, 2016, with executives in various sessions and panels. NFI's Senior Vice President of Integrated Solutions, David Broering, and Senior Vice President of Intermodal, Don Aiken, will represent the company.

Broering will serve as a panelist in Law of the Land, Law of the Jungle, discussing transportation law in business. He is also a panelist on Intermediaries – Protecting Your Interests, discussing current issues involving brokers, freight forwarders, and 3PLs. In addition, he will moderate the Transportation of Food and Drugs panel, taking a look at new laws and regulations such as the Food Safety Modernization Act and Sanitary Food Transportation Act. Aiken will also be a panelist on the Transportation of Food and Drugs session.

“Attendees will receive a well-rounded perspective of major topics and trends affecting the transportation industry,” said Broering. “The T&LC Conference presents a great opportunity to discuss best practices and obtain insights on how to manage the evolving supply chain landscape.”

NFI's extensive transportation experience spans brokerage, transportation management, intermodal, dedicated trucking, drayage, and international transportation. NFI works to address customer needs in a safe, effective, and efficient manner providing logistics solutions. Our consultative approach to transportation delivers engineered solutions tailored to achieve customer supply chain goals.

The 42nd annual conference takes place May 2, 2016 through May 4, 2016 at the Crown Plaza Albuquerque, New Mexico.
