VOLARIS ONLINE ON FAST TRACK WITH NASCAR SPONSORSHIP

ORLANDO, Fla. (Feb. 11, 2002) — VOLARIS ONLINE, the Southeast's largest independent Internet Service Provider (ISP), has landed a spot on the NASCAR circuit.

VOLARIS has just inked a deal to sponsor NASCAR driver David Green and the No. 6 Dodge Intrepid prepared by Tommy Baldwin Racing for the Busch Series event to be held in Daytona on Saturday, Feb. 16, at 1 p.m. (EST). The sponsorship will be the first of its kind for VOLARIS ONLINE, and supports the company's efforts to unite more than 50 local ISPs under one brand throughout the Southeastern United States.

—NASCAR and VOLARIS ONLINE have a strong presence in the Southeast. The partnership with David Green and Tommy Baldwin Racing is a great fit and will enable us to grow in this valuable market, — said Tony Paalz, COO, VOLARIS ONLINE. — We are excited about the race and hope that David's car moves as fast as our service! —

David Green is a veteran of the NASCAR Busch Series, with a career spanning more than 10 years on the circuit. Green and Tommy Baldwin Racing teamed up at the end of the 2001 season and have built five brand new cars over the winter to make a run at the 2002 NASCAR Busch Series Championship. — Partnering with VOLARIS ONLINE is key to the success and growth of our team, — said Green. — Like Volaris, we are a new entity with tremendous resources destined to become the best in our business. —
