The International Drivers License Allows You to Drive Legally In Over 200 Foreign Countries

LAFAYETTE, CA □ February 28, 2002: Market-Ability announces its brand new product The International Drivers License.

Back in the 1950s, the United Nations noticed a trend in international travel. They found that traveling and driving between countries was increasing dramatically. Because of this they decided to create the International Drivers License.

The International Driver License (or IDL) is a document in a booklet form (it resembles a passport) which translates the information on your current, valid drivers license into the language of the country you are traveling in. As long as you carry both your driver's license and your IDL while driving in another country, you are driving legally.

In order to receive an International Drivers License all you need to do is forward a copy of your current valid, drivers license, a passport type picture and a completed application. In just two weeks you will receive your International Drivers License in the mail.

This is a perfect item for people who do a lot of international travel either for business or pleasure and even for the first time traveler. It is good for five years and will allow you to not only drive legally, but also assist you in renting cars and purchasing insurance.

The product showcase presentation will be held on Monday March 4, 2002 at 990 Moraga Road, Suite C, Lafayette CA 94549. Call for times and reservation. Northern California based Market-Ability, LLC is a joint-venture firm that partners with new product inventors and distributors and markets their products and services through direct response television, radio, catalogs, direct mail and more.
