ICEM signs contract with PSA Peugeot Citroën

(PRWEB) April 3, 2003 -- PSA Peugeot Citroën Contracts with ICEM for Surface Modelling, Analysis and Visualisation Software

ICEM Surf Enhances Vehicle Design and Development Process.

PARIS, April 1, 2003 $\hat{A} \Box$ At the MICAD exhibition in Paris today, ICEM announced the signing of a contract with PSA Peugeot Citro \tilde{A} «n. Under terms of the contract, ICEM will supply and implement of the latest version of its surface modelling, analysis and visualisation software: ICEM Surf Version 4.3.

The contract, which is valued at $500,000, calls for ICEM to deliver and implement additional licences of ICEM Surf for use in design reviews on laptop PCs. In addition, PSA Peugeot Citroën will implement several new ICEM Surf add-on software modules across its organization. Much of the functionality provided by these new modules is the result of requests and development assistance from PSA Peugeot CitroënÂ□s engineers and designers. The implementation is the result of a 12-month joint project to define generic new software modules that will enable PSA Peugeot Citroen to enhance its vehicle development process.

Â□This latest commitment from PSA Peugeot Citroën is a good example of the way ICEM works in partnership with its customers, $\hat{A} \Box$ said Lee Cureton, ICEM chief executive. $\hat{A} \Box$ We truly believe that our ability to collaborate in order to define and deliver such projects in tight timeframes allows us to offer a unique proposition to our customers in the market today $\hat{A}\Box$.
