

Get Your Daily Dose of NASCAR News and "Silly Season" Rumors From All NASCAR Racing-All the Time

(PR WEB) Jan. 9th, 2004 " We are pleased to announce the latest website reporting on the sport of NASCAR "All NASCAR Racing-All the Time." ANR-AtT reports the latest news and "Silly Season" rumors on the NASCAR Nextel Cup Series, NASCAR Busch Series, and the NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series in a fashion we like to call a bullet reporting. ANR-AtT can be found at <http://www.anr-att.com>. We have been up for almost four months and have had over 15,000 hits and that number is increasing daily. Our goal is to be an alternative to reading long reports on the latest NASCAR news, as we give just the main part of the news and a link to the whole article.

(PRWEB) January 9, 2004 -- In our first three months we have had over 15,000 hits and growing that number daily. ANR-AtT has received feedback from are readers that says we are very timely in our reports and that we provide great information with the news. We do a segment called an e-mail interview, with drivers, crew chiefs, owners, and other throughout the NASCAR community, and we also do some commentary. Reporting in a bullet format saves our readers time and they still get the heart of the story, and still knows what is going on in the world of NASCAR.

We will report all news that we can find that is news worthy, any news can be forwarded to us through our website at www.anr-att.com. We will report on press releases, factual news, and the latest rumors, and we will do all of this in only a few lines of text, to save our readers time in there busy day.

Background on All NASCAR Racing-All the Time:

ANR-AtT was started in October of 2003 as an alternative to reading all the extras that are reported on other NASCAR websites. We wanted to try something different in the way that the news was reported, so we came up with what we like to call bullet reporting. If we rewrite part of a story from another source we always provide a link to that source. We get some of our information first hand so it can be reported to our readers first and then we do not provide a link.
