

Comedy Defensive Driving School® Launches First Fully-Animated No Reading Required Online Defensive Driving Course

Each year approximately 16 million traffic & speeding violations are issued in Texas, most of which are eligible for dismissal through participation in a state-approved defensive driving course. Following their twenty-year, 2 million students, classroom success, Comedy Defensive Driving School® has released the first ever, 100% no reading, online defensive driving course available for ticket dismissal & insurance reduction for all eligible Texans with an Internet connection. This course uses 2D & 3D celebrity parodies, live footage of local & national comedians, & stop motion action figure characters to teach state-regulated material in a unique, humorous, interactive, way.

Dallas, TX (PRWEB) January 3, 2007 -- Comedy Defensive Driving School® just released their educational online defensive driving course, produced in an outrageously funny movie format and approved by the State of Texas for traffic ticket dismissal and insurance reduction.

This is the 1st fully-animated, 100% Flash-driven online defensive driving course that requires no reading by the user. This online defensive driving course is loaded with a zany cast of 2D and 3D characters ranging from Christopher Walken, Gary Busey (spoofed as Barry Goosey), Bill Cosby, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Tom Brokaw (Tom Brokejaw), Jeff Foxworthy, Ozzy Osborne, and over 40 more.

This defensive driving course is educational, fast-paced, and loaded with hilarious little jewels of comedic silliness throughout. For instance, the main narrating character's rye comments like, "No cheating, well because I lost half of my stuff to her." By far, the funniest bit is "Animal Jeopardy" where comedian Bobcat Goldwaith, characterized as a buzzard and his road kill meal, fight it out with host Alex Trebek over defensive driving techniques.

This interactive online course was voiced by top comedic talent "Chinaman". He flawlessly performs 40 different voices. Chinaman's previous work includes the children's TV show DRAGONBALL Z where he voiced seven characters.

Texas native, Richard Schiller is the founder of Comedy Defensive Driving School®. He is a former race car driver and comedy club owner who combined his passions when he started Comedy Defensive Driving School® 20 years ago.

"Our new online defensive driving course is an overnight sensation," Schiller said. "People can start and stop the program any time they wish and can take up to 90 days to complete the course at their own convenience. This course is very funny, yet educational. It takes a subject most don't care to think of and turns it into an enjoyable learning experience. Believe it or not, getting a ticket can be fun!" Schiller went on to say, "Texas has the toughest testing standards for ticket dismissal approval in the industry."

When contacted about the course, the Texas Education Agency - Driver Training Division said they are "Very pleased with the course" and that "It is by far the highest-quality [online defensive driving] course offered."

So if you are the victim of a speed trap, check point or stealthy cruiser carefully camouflaged in a field of Blue

Bonnets...if your insurance agent grins in anticipation every time your premium adjustment comes up...or if you're a hopeless goodie-two-shoes just looking to impress momma with another diploma...Comedy Defensive Driving School® is just your ticket.
