(PRWEB) January 6, 2007 -- Airport Parking and Hotels (APH), www.aph.com, has launched flexible airport hotel and parking packages enabling customers to tailor their exact requirements when booking hotel and parking packages. Previously hotel and parking packages have only been bookable for durations of eight and 15 days.

APH is the first airport parking company to offer flexible parking and hotel packages. Nick Caunter, APH managing director, said: "Previously airport hotels were only offered with parking in pre-set durations, which no longer fits with the UK holiday maker. With more and more customers taking advantage of lower cost schedule flights, holiday breaks can be of any duration from two days upwards. Airport park and ride parking alone has always been bookable for the exact duration, but not so with an airport hotel and parking package. Until now."

Prices for flexible airport parking and hotels costs from

Gatwick

10 days parking in February with an overnight hotel close to Gatwick Airport starts at £71. The price includes return transfers between the car park and the airport.

Manchester

Six days parking in February with an overnight hotel close to Manchester Airport starts at £51. The price includes return transfers between the car park and the airport.

Glasgow

11 days parking in February with an overnight hotel close to Glasgow Airport starts at £87. The price includes return transfers between the car park and the airport.
