In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, you must meet certain legal requirements. Please be aware that Scott + Scott, LLC has filed this lawsuit at the request of shareholders and in accordance with the applicable laws.

Goodyear is an Akron-based manufacturer of tires and rubber products, with worldwide operations. During the Class Period, Goodyear filed financial reports with the SEC, which purported to accurately reflect the Company's operating results and financial condition. Unbeknownst to class members, the financial information contained in the Company's SEC filings were the result of accounting improprieties. Specifically, as the Company admitted in a press release issued after the close of trading on October 22, 2003, Goodyear had overstated its net income and shareholders' equity by a total of approximately $100 million and $120 million, respectively. As a result, the Company has disclosed that it will restate its results "for the years 1998-2002 and for the first and second quarters of 2003." The Company attributes the overstatements to "the implementation of an enterprise resource planning accounting system (ERP) in 1999 and errors in inter-company billing systems." In addition, the Company will delay the release of detailed third quarter 2003 results, which were due to be released on October 23. Goodyear further announced that it was continuing its "ongoing process of strengthening its accounting procedures and is implementing further improvements to its system of internal controls."
