(PRWEB) December 4, 2003 -- Huntington Beach, California Â December 2, 2003 Â EFI University, a Southern California based company, held its third EFI-101 seminar this year in Huntington Beach on November 15th and 16th at AutoWave, Inc. Attendees from around the country and the world traveled from as far as New York, Florida, Texas, and the Philippines to hear EFI University founder, Ben Strader, speak about the practical uses of modern fuel injection.

The seminar, entitled "EFI-101", is designed to educate performance-minded consumers about the installation and tuning process of aftermarket electronic fuel injection systems on modern high performance engines.

This was the last in a series of seminars that took place throughout 2003 in various parts of the United States including Texas, New Jersey, and Southern California.

Topics such as "understanding engine tuning", "basics of electronics", and "understanding ignition requirements" are some examples of the many subjects covered in this day and a half seminar which concludes the second day with a live demonstration of tuning on a chassis dynamometer.

EFI University will soon be releasing the schedule of class offerings for the year 2004 on their website at www.efi101.com. The schedule will include class offerings such as "EFI-101", "EFI Advanced Tuning", and a hands-on "EFI Wiring Harness Workshop".
