

StreetrodStuff.com Offers High-Quality/High-Performance Aluminum Radiators Built To Order

Quality aluminum radiators are a vital component for high-performance automotive enthusiasts and when custom sizing is needed, availability and pricing can be prohibitive. Hot rodders know this and have been turning to StreetrodStuff.com in droves for beautifully built, high-performance aluminum radiators built to their exact specifications and at a price lower than the competition.

Massillon, OH (PRWEB) January 28, 2004 -- Hot rodders are known for making radical modifications on their custom cars and trucks. When it comes time to cool their hot rod, off-the-shelf radiators just won't cut it. Customers can design their radiator themselves right on the StreetrodStuff.com website. Width, height, inlet and outlet locations, mounting bracket locations, and much more can be configured for each customer's application.

StreetrodStuff.com's radiators are all built by Performance Rod & Custom (PRC). PRC is one of the fastest growing aftermarket radiator manufacturers in the industry as people realize that they don't need to spend a fortune for high-quality. Customers get the same quality of materials and workmanship that PRC uses when building radiators for NASCAR race cars. StreetrodStuff.com offers PRC radiators in both vertical and cross flow configurations and has built units for street rods, muscle cars, pickups, and many late model vehicles.

For pricing and other information, visit <http://www.streetrodstuff.com>.

About StreetrodStuff.com

StreetrodStuff.com is a family-owned company specializing in quality aftermarket performance parts for the street and hot rod markets.

CONTACT INFORMATION:

Dick Zakrzewski

StreetrodStuff.com

330-833-9560

<http://www.streetrodstuff.com>

###

Contact Information

Jason Long

STREETROD STUFF, INC.

<http://www.streetrodstuff.com>

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.