North Carolina attorney at Marcari, Russotto, Spencer & Balaban P.C. achieves settlement for client injured in work-related vehicle accident.

Scotland County, North Carolina (PRWEB) December 01, 2015 -- Partner David Spencer at the Raleigh office of Marcari, Russotto, Spencer & Balaban P.C. recently helped a client reach an $890,000 settlement in a case involving a motor vehicle accident that took place while the plaintiff was driving on SR 1436, near Maxton, North Carolina. The plaintiff in this case was rear-ended while driving a work van, and the accident led to serious and permanent injuries. The suit alleged that the defendant driver was operating his vehicle in a careless, negligent and unlawful manner.

According to the settlement, the accident allegedly occurred due to the defendant's failure to slow or stop his vehicle. The plaintiff sought compensation after alleging injuries to his hands, left shoulder and neck; in addition to exacerbating his pre-existing degenerative disc disease, the neck injury involved a bulging disc, which necessitated a spinal fusion. He also suffered a serious post-surgery infection, which resulted in an additional surgery. Additionally, the client was placed on permanent work restrictions.

"We believe that our clients are entitled to the fair compensation they deserve due to injuries caused by others," said attorney David Spencer. "I am proud to have been able to help my client get the money he needs to pay for medical care."

The case is 15-CVS-583, Scotland County Clerk of Court.
