

Used 2004 Trailblazer Transmission Now for Sale in 4L60E Builds at Used Transmissions Company Website

Used 2004 Trailblazer transmission is now for sale in the 4L60E build at the GotTransmissions.com company. These 2004 automatic gearboxes are certified units available for U.S. shipments.

Phoenix, AZ (PRWEB) January 01, 2014 -- The Chevy Trailblazer SUV is one of the recent contributions by the General Motors company in the American auto market. The Got Transmissions company is currently promoting used inventory in GM builds online. This company has now added used 2004 Trailblazer transmission inventory in 4L60E builds online at <http://gottransmissions.com/chevy-transmissions.html>.

These replacement units are now featured in the electronic inventory of authentic builds from the General Motors company. The 4L60E is one of the recent transmissions produced for use in the truck and sport utility vehicles in the U.S. auto industry. The acquisition of the Trailblazer editions online is expected to attract more buyers to the Got Transmissions website this year.

One enhancement to the General Motors used transmissions inventory currently promoted online is the issuance of warranty protection with each unit for sale. The GotTransmissions.com company has made changes to its network of suppliers through 2013 to increase the quality of its builds that are for sale online.

"The 4L60E and other units in the automatic transmission inventory now promoted online offer buyers sale pricing compared to buying direct from dealerships," a source said at the Got Transmissions company.

Because the GM 4L60E transmission series was used only until the 2006 year, locating units for replacement online can be difficult for buyers without a resource to find out of production transmissions. The Got Transmissions company acquisition of this electronically controlled automatic four-speed transmission is opening up new research options for buyers online.

"The for sale inventory that we're marketed in the U.S. is shipped without costs for freight as a special program for buyers who use our transmissions website," the source confirmed.

Buyers of replacement gearboxes who are interested in viewing the GM Trailblazer inventory online can research all available inventory through the search box now entered on the GotTransmissions.com website. This search feature now returns all pricing for in stock units and presents ordering methods to buyers.
