

InventHelp® Client Invents "3 in 1 Bumper Safety Sheet Set" - Invention Promotes Enhanced Crib Safety

Pittsburgh-based InventHelp® attempts to submit clients' inventions to companies for review.

Pittsburgh, PA (PRWEB) January 17, 2013 -- InventHelp, America's largest inventor service company, announces that one of its clients, an inventor from Connecticut, has designed a baby crib accessory to ensure an infant's arms, hands or legs cannot pass through the slots and become stuck. This invention is patented.

"3 in 1 Bumper Safety Sheet Set" bottom sheet and bumper pads would be connected with a mesh material and extend up the railings of a crib. This feature could eliminate dropped toys and pacifiers. Flame retardant soft materials are included in the design for safety and comfort. Compatible with any crib, 3 in 1 Bumper Safety Sheet Set could help to avoid infant suffocation and allow for proper ventilation.

3 in 1 Bumper Safety Sheet Set would consist of a rectangular mattress sheet and mesh fabric producible from cotton. The mesh fabric would be sewn around the perimeter of the sheet. The sheet would be fitted onto the mattress. Extra blankets would be included with the sheet set. The blankets would be interchangeable for washing and can be zipped into place. The bumper is sewn around the perimeter of the mesh fabric and would be connected to the crib by pulling adjustable straps for tension on each corner and the sides of the bumper. To use, an individual would place the sheet onto the mattress and position the bumpers at each corner of the crib. The mesh fabric would prevent objects from passing through the slots. 3 in 1 Bumper Safety Sheet Set could be producible in different colors and designs of fabric.
