Online car insurance quotes can be obtained from various sources. Clients can choose to visit an insurer's website or a brokerage website and ask for quotes. For each option there are pros and cons. Clients interested in brokerage websites can get multiple quotes just by visiting and filling in the form found at <http://compare-autoinsurance.org/>.

There are several factors that will help drivers obtain useful quotes:

- Use realistic estimates and honest info when requesting online quotes. The accuracy of the quote is strictly dependent on the quality of provided info. Drivers should always keep relevant sources of info nearby. In this way, they can double-check if they add correct data. Also, provide realistic annual mileage when asked by forms.
- Pay attention to all details asked by online forms. It is not a good idea to rush things when filling in important forms. The risk of missing important factors or checking the wrong box is pretty high. Keep in mind that every row is important and it can potentially save or cost more money. If the question or several terms are not clearly understood, check online for definition or call an agent.
- Use brokerage websites to get multiple quotes and compare prices. Do not limit to a single quote or a single website. Shop around on as many websites as possible. Then, compare prices. Just make sure to compare prices for exactly the same product
