This policy will reimburse the policyholder if the car is damaged by events not related to a collision. Comprehensive coverage will provide financial support if one of the following scenarios happens:

- The vehicles get stolen. Comprehensive coverage is the only policy that reimburses a policyholder for car theft. Insurance companies will use the car's value at the moment it was stolen in order to provide compensation. The exact term is ACV - Actual Cash Value and it takes into consideration over-time value depreciation.
- Extreme weather phenomena. Annually, a huge number of cars are destroyed during hurricanes, tornados, wildfires, hail storms or avalanches. This policy covers weather-related damage. In order to avoid a high number of claims, insurance companies stop offering this policy once extreme weather is forecast.
- Damage caused by animals. Comprehensive coverage will pay the driver if he hits a car and damaged his car. Hitting large animals such as moose, horses, cattle can easily total a car. It also covers scenarios when animals attack the car and wreck it.
- Vandalism or riots. Even cars parked in relatively safe locations are not spared by people with criminal intent. While graffiti and eggs can be cleaned, scratches, dents, or broken headlights need a visit to a car repair shop and will cost a significant amount of money. In the case of riots, the car can be set aflame and totally destroyed.
