

Dodge Dakota Rebuilt Transmission Now Sold as 46RE Build at PowertrainPros.com Company

Dodge Dakota rebuilt transmission is now for sale online as a 46RE build from the Powertrain Pros company. These Chrysler built gearboxes are now setup for shipment in the U.S.

Ann Arbor, MI (PRWEB) January 16, 2014 -- The Dodge Dakota pickup truck series was terminated by Chrysler in favor of the expanding SUV market in the U.S. in 2004. One gearbox company is now selling Dodge Dakota rebuilt transmission inventory for the Dakota truck series online. The Powertrain Pros company is offering the 46RE builds at <http://powertrainpros.com/dodge-dakota-rebuilt-transmission>.

These original Chrysler transmissions are currently rebuilt by hand and offered to buyers researching out of production gearboxes in North America. The 46RE gearboxes were associated with the Dakota truck series as well as other vehicles produced in the Chrysler family. A new sale structure is applied to these automatic gearboxes now reflected on the company homepage.

The rebuilding of original Chrysler transmissions is one new phase of the 2014 inventory at the PowertrainPros.com company. Because Chrysler produces Jeep and Dodge, most replacement units that are currently remanufactured are able to fit inside each of these vehicle brands to provide more compatibility.

"The Dakota transmissions that are now offered as reconditioned online are shipped with our own two-year parts warranty that is included in the sale pricing," said a source at the PowertrainPros.com company.

Apart from the 46RE editions now for sale, additional builds that are compatible with Ford and Chevy trucks are found in the company inventory online. The Powertrain Pros company has installed its own inventory finder system that produces in stock units for customers to view. The Chevy 700R4 and 4L60E editions are now a part of what can be found on the company website.

"Our increases in Dodge, Ford and Chevrolet gearboxes for the 2014 year is attracting more replacement transmission buyers unable to find quality builds from other sources," added the source.

The Powertrain Pros company has installed a toll-free customer service support number this year. This number immediately links transmission buyers to specialists who are trained to supply a range of services to help with sales processing offline. This number at 1-888-292-8807 is now available during every standard business week in the U.S.

About PowertrainPros.com

The PowertrainPros.com company is one of the leading domestic transmission rebuilding companies selling its inventory online. This company specializes in North American automaker builds that are discounted for public sale. The PowertrainPros.com website creates easy research solutions for buyers of replacement transmissions to find quality assemblies ready for shipment. The customer service solutions this company offers enables price quotes to be obtained using the toll-free phone system. The company inventory is modified on a daily basis for quality control before shipments are processed.

Contact Information

Toby Jones

PowertrainPros.com

<http://www.powertrainpros.com>

+1 (904) 701-4550

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.