These foreign imports are custom built inside of a recently upgraded facility and are now paired with 36 months of coverage against wear and tear to provide buyers with more assurance when purchasing motors for replacement.*

San Francisco, California (PRWEB) January 15, 2013 -- Toyota has remained a major competitor in worldwide automotive sales. The Corolla, Rav4 and Camry have helped to build the company reputation for drivers. The RemanufacturedEnginesforSale.com company is now selling rebuilt Toyota engines with complete 3-year warranties. This new program is helping buyers receive assurance for a 36-month period to protect against common problems or OEM part failures.

Toyota produces its line of passenger cars, trucks and SUVs that are sold in the U.S., Canada and in other parts of the world. The luxury brand of this automaker is the Lexus brand and these vehicles make use of the Z engine technologies and new technology found in the Toyota lineup.

The reconditioned motors for this automaker now offered online include all variants of engine types including the I4 and V6 series. This expansion of the inventory is expected to directly affect the way that buyers locate and purchase motors online.

The warranty program that has been launched for online and offline sales is in combination with the new testing procedures that are now available. The use of a dynamometer is now one of the testing procedures that are used after each build is completed. This digital device is one way to measure the calibration and engine output when compared with OEM data. The use of this testing equipment is one of the investments that have been made by this company. The inspection processes that are now used are applicable to all of the in stock editions that are shipped daily to customers.

The Toyota expansion of inventory and new warranty program are part of a company measure to increase the amount of inventory held. The Ford Motor Company inventory now represents one of the largest that can be found in the automotive industry online. These engines date back to the 1960s for some models making replacements hard to find. The addition of these Ford engines in rebuilt condition was announced earlier this month at this news release

To go with the brand new company changes, the system of quotes that is used has been improved. Both telephone quotes and online-only quotes are now possible directly from the company website. Vehicle owners, dealerships, mechanics and others purchasing online can now receive instant pricing using one of these two methods for price delivery.
