CARLSBAD, Calif. (PRWEB) November 23, 2020 -- Eevelle has launched a new brand called “Seasons” to round out its line of high-quality RV and patio furniture covers. Seasons was designed to provide an entry level cover without sacrificing the durability that Eevelle’s popular top tier cover brands are known for. The balance between affordability and quality is central to Seasons.

“There is currently a boom in the patio and RV industries due to COVID-19 and the desire to safely experience the outdoors,” says Eevelle COO, Mike Roberts. “Winter is approaching and the demand for covers is on the rise. With that has come an explosion in the number of low-quality covers with substandard materials. Eevelle wants to provide covers that can accommodate a tighter budget without sacrificing quality.”

Eevelle’s focus has always been on quality. Their line of Goldline RV covers and Regent patio furniture covers are the gold standard. However, many customers working with a smaller budget were forced to wade through low quality covers made with dubious materials that may or may not hold up under the elements. Eevelle’s designers carried over what they learned from their high-end covers to create something that features not only quality materials, but also a very affordable price point.

“Many of the materials used in durable covers have been stretched thin this year due to their use in healthcare-related products and overall international shipping delays,” says Eevelle COO, Mike Roberts. “This has caused many manufacturers to cut corners so they are able to fill orders and customers should be aware. Seasons was specifically created to provide an affordable cover that isn’t a glorified tarp.”

Seasons incorporates many of the features seen on Eevelle’s higher-end covers. This includes a Durapel UV Sun inhibitor to protect against sun damage, a micro-porous film for breathability to prevent the growth of mildew and a rain finish that provides superior water protection. Seasons covers also feature reinforced corners as well as strategically placed elastic hems to provide the best possible fit while making installation simple.

Eevelle’s Seasons covers are available now online exclusively from National Covers. Currently, Seasons is available for both RVs as well as a variety of patio furniture.
