

FollowUs powers the world's first vehicle tracking system fitted as standard equipment

FollowUs Ltd, the premier cell location provider, is pleased to announce that they are finalising a contract that enables them to pin-point a standard fitment $30 chip located within a vehicle's computer management system. Location is then delivered to the customer on a street map via the FollowUs website.

(PRWEB) May 7, 2004 -- This revolutionary development enables FollowUs to offer the location of a vehicle within meters without the need for high cost GPS solutions that are presently offered in the market place.

We have in-built approved processes to ensure privacy is protected. Once activated, the FollowUs server will when requested, pull raw location data from the vehicle and calculate the position before importing it into a street map and delivering to the customer.

Martin Brown, Managing Director for FollowUs said: "We are delighted with the market response to our FollowUs Location Service. Put simply, we have enabled our FollowUs customers to track almost anything without the need of high cost GPS hardware solutions.

This is a real answer to the problem of delivering a safe working environment for employees who work "in-the-field", particularly as HSE requirements tighten. Our development has swung open the barn door and will enable vehicle manufactures to evaluate driver attitudes, speeds driven and location.

We also offer a Followus Location Device that is small enough to be placed in valuable packages or can be used in conjunction with vehicles, trailers, plant machinery. Options are endless.

It simply does not get any better if you FollowUs ".
