

Colonial Toyota gets new 2020 sedans ready for customer questions

The 2020 Camry and 2020 Avalon offers performance and connectivity advantages over top rivals.

MILFORD, Conn. (PRWEB) February 28, 2020 -- The class of 2020 Toyota vehicles available at the Colonial Toyota showroom represents some of the most technologically advanced models in the current automotive industry. Leading the way for the automaker are the 2020 versions of the Toyota Avalon and Toyota Camry. Both offer cutting-edge features combined with the kind of class-leading performance that has changed the way the competition has approached sedan design and production. Colonial Toyota currently has several versions of the 2020 Toyota Camry and the 2020 Toyota Avalon in its showroom. Customers are invited to visit the Colonial Toyota facility to see how these vehicles stack up against their top rivals.

Without question, the Toyota Camry is one of the most recognizable nameplates on the road today. The automaker has equipped the 2020 Camry with a pair of power plants that offer significant performance advantages over at least one of its top competitors. Toyota installs a naturally-aspirated 2.5-liter, four-cylinder engine on base trims that will produce 203 horsepower.

The 2020 Toyota Avalon has borne the mantle of the automaker's flagship sedan for a long time. In that time, it has set the bar high for its class and the Toyota lineup as well. The Avalon was among the first Toyota vehicles to feature compatibility with the Apple CarPlay® suite of applications as well as a 4G LTE Wi-Fi hotspot. Both of those features are available in the 2020 model and the available mobile internet connection is a feature not available in the Toyota sedan's fierce rival. Additionally, the 2020 Avalon is able to outperform every version of its competition from a specific automaker.
