Eagle Leasing announces that they recently reached a milestone with the addition of their ten thousandth (10,000th) container into their lease fleet

(PRWEB) June 20, 2004 -- Eagle Leasing announces that they recently reached a milestone with the addition of their ten thousandth (10,000th) container into their lease fleet. Eagle Leasing is New England's largest independent trailer and container leasing company with more than 40 years of experience. Founded by Irving Eagle back in the mid 60's, they are now into their third generation of ownership.

You've probably seen their trailer's bright yellow logo swoosh each week in the opening of the HBO hit series "The Sopranos". You've also likely seen their containers on job and storage sites throughout the New England and eastern New York.

Eagle specializes in leasing quality storage, road, and office trailers in addition to ground level storage containers. With locations in Southboro, Massachusetts, and Orange, Connecticut their radio-dispatched trucks can quickly and efficiently deliver their equipment throughout New England and Eastern New York.

"Just today we painted and numbered Unit # E51-10000C, our 10,000th container," smiles David Eagle, one of Eagle's principals. "We're very proud of the achievement as it's taken over many years to reach this mark." David confides that one of the Eagle family members has overseen the process of each unit personally. Customers continue to be impressed that they can speak directly to the boss when inquiring about leasing options.

FROM TEN UNITS TO TEN THOUSAND

Eagle specializes in providing clean, well-maintained equipment when and where the customer needs it. Units are lockable and watertight. Rates include delivery and set up onsite.
