

Previously Unreleased Data: Buffalo, New York's Most Dangerous Intersections

Martin, Harding, & Mazzotti LLP is now publishing previously unreleased data related to the most dangerous intersections in the Buffalo, NY area.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (PRWEB) March 23, 2021 -- In the process of revisiting our Most Dangerous Intersections project, Martin, Harding & Mazzotti LLP® is publishing previously unreleased data on the most dangerous intersections in the Buffalo, New York area. Personal injury attorneys Martin, Harding & Mazzotti LLP® submitted a FOIL request to the NYSDOT seeking traffic accident data at intersections in the Buffalo, NY area and Erie county from January of 2015 through December of 2016. Martin, Harding & Mazzotti team members then reviewed the data in an effort to identify the most dangerous intersections in this region. The two years of data included more than 17,000 reports throughout the Buffalo area and Erie county. The data was reviewed and consolidated and each intersection scored based on a weighted formula. The result is a detailed reporting of which local intersections carry a higher risk for Buffalo drivers. The team in charge of the review was also able to extract additional details from the report as well, highlighting the most common accident types, weather conditions, light conditions, roadway surface conditions and even collision type. Managing partner Paul Harding said, “Our hope is that the identification of these troubled spots will increase awareness and hopefully result in a safer Buffalo.”
