

Young Mother Makes The Car Seat Safer For All Kids!

Sleepy Time Headrest keeps childrens head from flopping from side to side when they fall asleep in their car seats.

(PRWEB) June 18, 2004 -- When Sherri Marbutt's first child was born, she put her daughter in her car seat, the same as any caring parent would, and then, watched her head flop from side to side and down, when she would nap during the trip. They tried everything, from reclining the seat, and propping her head with towels, (which worked, until the towel would fall on the seat). Most of the time, Sherri would just sit and hold her child's head back with her hand. Sound familiar? Pass a car on the highway, or on a city street, and in the back seat, more than likely, there will be a child with their head leaning forward as they sleep. Just think how they will feel when they wake up! How do you feel when you fall asleep on a plane and wake up with a stiff aching neck? Want to stop this from happening? So did Sherri, when she invented this great product. Why not spare your children this pain also. If they are very young, they may not be able to tell you just how much they hurt.

Marbutt told her first child, that she was the "guinea pig" for the headrest they had invented, for her children, and also for every other child that goes through the same discomfort as theirs.

The Sleepy Time Headrest is the only child's headrest that has been dynamically crash tested by Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 213 and made public.

Sleepy Time Headrest is economical, lightweight, and your children will reap the benefits from using it. It can be used in a baby carrier, car seat, booster seat, swing, stroller, wheelchairs and feeder seats. The Sleepy Time Headrest is not just for babies, but for older children too. The head supports on the market today, don't support the child's head to keep it from falling forward. They only support on the side, and are only for babies weighing up to 20 lbs. When Marbutt was asked why she has put this product on the market, she said "I want all children to be safe and without pain when they wake up from their naps, and the Sleepy Time Headrest works for my children, and it will work for yours too".

The Sleepy Time Headrest does not interfere with the car seat straps like others on the market. It comes in 2 sizes, infant and toddler. Marbutt is in the process of making an extra large size for older children weighing more than 60 lbs. To order the headrest, mail check or money order for $35.95 (free shipping & handling) to Blair Enterprises of Florida, 10237 Blossom Lake Drive, Seminole, FL 33772.
