I am trying to build a large network of Motorsport related websites, one that will become the first stop for anyone interested in any form of Motorsport, whether it is Formula 1 or go-carts.

(PRWEB) June 21, 2004 -- I am trying to build a large network of Motorsport related websites, one that will become the first stop for anyone interested in any form of Motorsport, whether it is Formula 1 or go-carts. What I am offering you is to become part of this growing group. I am willing to bring your website into the Motorsports-network.net domain, you will have full access to run your site and your domain name can be transferred into my hosting.

Why do this?

We can become the global leaders in Motorsports websites, when people think of Formula 1 they think of Ferrari, when people think of Motorsports I want them to think of Motorsports-Network.net.

What will happen to me?

You will still run your site, but you will not have any hosting fees, all I ask for in return is to put the Motorsports-network menu bar on your site, so people can move around the site easily. I will be including a partners menu where your site will feature. In addition, if you choose to move your site to my hosting, I will place a small advert; this is to cover the costs of hosting. However if you choose to become part of the network, but not move your website to my hosting, all I will ask you to do, is to add the menu bar to your website.

I do not have a full website, only a forum, can I join the group?

You can still benefit from this. We have three options, you can benefit from the Motorsports-network.net group-

- 1- By only including the menu bar on your forum, your site will then become part of the group and people will find your forum.
- 2- If you have a forum, but it is a free forum, I can host your forum, and include the advert and menu bar. I will install a invision forum, ready for you to use.
- 3- The third option is to merge with the Motorsports-network.net forum found at www.motorsports-network.net/forums for more information please email me.
