

Local Principal takes Driver's Education Personally

High School has partnered with National Driver Training Institute (NDTI) to teach the students of his school how to drive.

Nucla, CO (PRWEB) September 3, 2004 -- Mike Epright, principal of Nucla Junior/Senior

High School has partnered with National Driver Training Institute (NDTI) to teach the students of his school how to drive.

By using the graduated driver licensing program that NDTI offers, Epright has agreed to serve as the driver education instructor. The program which is designed as a parent-taught home study course, is state-approved and in fact is one of few that exceed the state's requirements, obligating student to complete 30 hours of classroom instruction and 50 hours of behind-the-wheel instruction completed concurrently.

"Quote from Epright"

"Our small rural community feels driver education can and does save lives. Many accidents can and do occur on the southwestern part of Montrose County. Our children need every opportunity to learn the "right way to driver". This will make a difference.

"With very few state-approved driver education courses meeting the state' requirements, we are very pleased with Mr. Epright's decision" said Wayne Tully, President and CEO of the National Driver Training Institute, "by taking on this project responsibility, Mr. Epright is showing the seriousness and the value of proper driver's education."

National Driver Training Institute will host a Parent Orientation Night on Thursday September 16, 2004 starting 6 PM at Nucla High School. CEO Wayne Tully will show a large screen, 20 minute presentation and help parents get started on the right road to teaching their teenagers to become a "Safe Driver For Life", All are invited. Refreshments will follow. There is no charge for this event.

With accidents being the number one cause of death amongst teenagers, Colorado recently amended it's Graduated Licensing Laws which require teens to demonstrate ability before they are granted a full-privilege license.

The National Driver Training Institute, based in Colorado Springs, Colorado, is a nation-wide driver education company providing graduated driver licensing programs.

Founded in 1994, it offers various driver education and training programs ranging from teen education to rehabilitation and court-appointed programs.
