

Find Seized Government Cars

The government confiscates and seizes vehicles and property everyday. These items become available for purchase at government auctions. Since the government pays nothing for it, they can sell them for any price.

(PRWEB) September 5, 2004 -- There are cars to purchase from $100 and they are not salvaged vehicles. You can inspect them before you purchase them. Most of the cars at government auctions are almost new with low miles. For instance, when a sports car is seized from a drug dealer, you can purchase it at government auctions. AuctionsPass is giving away the secrets to government auctions. You will find the car of your dreams for a very low price.

The ability to use the AuctionPass technology allows you to find government auctions in your area. Once you find the auction you can determine which vehicles are on site. Then you can decide if you want to attend this auction and purchase a vehicle of your dreams for pennies on the dollar.

Government auctions have been around for a long time. Ever since the government has been seizing goods they have been selling them back to the public to raise money for the local police divisions. Not only will you be getting an excellent deal on your next vehicle purchase, but you will be helping the law enforcement agency.
