

Ms. Sarah Louise Smith's newly released "My Two Katrinas" is a heartfelt testament of a woman whose faith was tested by the waves of life

"My Two Katrinas" from Christian Faith Publishing author Ms. Sarah Louise Smith holds a poignant account that shares the Katrina experiences of a woman and bringing the inspiration forward to others who are struggling as well.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (PRWEB) April 15, 2020 -- "My Two Katrinas": a profound retelling of a life that's been dragged down by tribulations and challenges yet is lifted up by the Lord's saving hand. "My Two Katrinas" is the creation of published author Ms. Sarah Louise Smith, a writer who has worked with children most of her life. She is currently retired yet still works with children at the Antioch MBC as a teacher for the children's church whenever needed. She is a servant of Christ Jesus and she serves in any way she can to His glory.

Smith shares, "This book is about two devastating events that happened in my life in 2005. The first one was the loss of my youngest son. He left this life in a trucking accident. Most of his twenty-four years, he wanted to be a tractor trailer driver. Driving the big rig was all he wanted to do since he could walk and talk. "The second one is about the home we lost two months after the passing of Anthony. Hurricane Katrina came through the Gulf Coast and destroyed our home and everything we owned. We experienced life on the street for the next week. It is an ordeal that I never want to experience again. When I left New Orleans the only thing I had left was my purse and the clothes on my back. We lost everything.

"I have recovered from most of the material things I lost. I was able to purchase them again. I have accepted the fact that God doesn't make mistakes and he knows what's best, but I have not totally recovered from the loss of my son. There are days that I'm totally fine. Then there are days that I feel the pain of the loss. My good days do outweigh my sad days, so I don't complain. It is God who has blessed me and brought me through and I'm grateful."

Published by Christian Faith Publishing, Ms. Sarah Louise Smith's new book witnesses the challenging events in a woman's life as she deals with everything that has been thrown at her and her family. Here one will see how she faces the storms that broke her life and how she tries to rise from the pits of grief and sadness. View a synopsis of "My Two Katrinas" on YouTube.
