

Classic American Cars

Whats killing our old American cars. Why do we just let them die.

(PRWEB) November 8, 2004 -- First and foremost, we need to keep the old American cars on the road, so we don't allow the foreign car to take over. Always remember, this is America and we are all Americans, so we should want to keep our sweet old cars on the road, and maintain a presence of them on the street.

These old American cars are very cool also, and you just feel good whan driving them, you feel like an American should, you feel proud, you feel like the king of the road and you should. Are we really ready to just give up on our history, Do our old cars really mean so little, that we can just let them rot in the back yard, or get sent off to the wrecking yard to be crushed.

C'mon people nobody up on nobody does it like we do, please help keep our old cars alive and moving down the road. I'll bet each one of these cars would have some good stories to tell if they could talk, and if you've ever talked to somebody that was alive when these cars were new, well the cars helped tham have a lot of good times with their friends and family.

If we don't do something soon we won't have any left, besides whats in the museums and private collections.

###

Contact Information*David Atkin

RED LINE PERFORMANCE &amp; RESTORATION

<http://muscle-car-resto.com>

801-401-9399

Online Web 2.0 VersionYou can read the online version of this press release here.