California Casualty, a national auto and home insurance provider with roots in California, was recently named “Best 2021 Car Insurance in California for Frontline Workers” by Investopedia, a leading online financial education resource that reaches 19 million users each month.

SAN MATEO, Calif. (PRWEB) March 25, 2021 -- California Casualty has been named “Best 2021 Car Insurance in California for Frontline Workers” by Investopedia, a leading online consumer education resource. The announcement comes from their report which reviewed over 20 insurance companies in the state of California, comparing their cost, value, service, coverage options and more.

Investopedia references California Casualty, a national auto and home insurance company with roots in California, as “the best auto insurance for nurses, teachers, firefighters and other essential providers, offering special rates and benefits unavailable to the general public.” When quoting with California Casualty, Investopedia’s team received rates 30% below the average.

The report highlights specific benefits and policy enhancements that California Casualty offers frontline workers. Listed are features such as firearms coverage and a fallen hero survivor benefit for firefighters and police officers, and deductible waivers for teachers and nurses.

Investopedia was founded in 1999 by to simplify complex financial information and decisions for its readers, giving them the confidence to manage every aspect of their financial life.

It’s no surprise to California Casualty that the company is referenced in such a way. As the auto and home insurance partner to California Teachers Association (CTA), California State Firefighters’ Association (CSFA), PORAC and numerous educator and public safety member groups across the country, the company has been protecting frontline workers for decades. Their reported expertise in the rates offered and the benefits provided is well-founded.

“We are proud to protect American Heroes and their families with special pricing, discounts, and policy benefits that meet their needs,” said Mike McCormick, California Casualty’s CMO.
