World Patent Marketing Reviews A New Car Accessory Invention. Will BS-Box Be the Next World Patent Marketing Low Cost Success Story?

Miami, FL (PRWEB) September 13, 2016 -- World Patent Marketing, a vertically integrated manufacturer and engineer of patented products, introduces the Bumper Sticker Box, a car accessory invention that allows people to customize their cars.

“The automotive accessory industry is worth $34 billion,” says Scott Cooper, CEO and Creative Director of World Patent Marketing. “Due to advances in technology making long-lasting cars the norm, people are more willing to spend on this industry.”

“Most people enjoy customizing their cars. Bumper stickers are a great way for people to express themselves,” says Jerry Shapiro, Director of Manufacturing and World Patent Marketing Inventions. “This car accessory invention gives people more choices and makes it easier for them to control what’s on the back of their car.”

The BS-Box is an automotive accessory invention that gives people the ability to alter their bumper stickers on the go. This invention is a thin box with an image on it that can be placed on the back of a car. The box is installed inside the car by an auto technician and is connected to a control panel inside the car. The panel then gives the driver control over the device so they can freely select and change what is shown as a bumper sticker. This allows the driver to alter what is shown as a bumper sticker whenever they want to suit their mood or the occasion. It gives people total freedom to display what they want wherever, whenever.

“I have always had crazy ideas. Just never thought I would see one of them produced for the market,” says inventor Dawn B. “Then I found World Patent Marketing on the internet and thought what the heck. Let’s make this dream come true, and use it to help a lot more dreams come true and help a lot of people live better lives.”
