(PRWEB) August 04, 2015 -- Microsoft has presented its seventh installment of the 2015 Visual Studio Team to Win Award to Rum Bum Racing, following the team's impressive performance at Canadian Tire Motorsport Park. The award is given to the team best demonstrating teamwork during each 2015 TUDOR United SportsCar Championship or Continental Tire Sports Car Challenge race. Rum Bum Racing was one of four teams nominated for the award, and was declared the winner by the fan voting component of the contest.

Visual Studio, Microsoft's application development software, continues its involvement in motorsports after sponsoring the Grand-Am Rolex Sports Car Series event at Road Atlanta in 2013 and hosting the inaugural season of the Team to Win Award in 2014. The "Team to Win" theme that reflects the software's collaborative development focus has found a great analogy in the tremendous teamwork required of world-class sports car racing. After a successful debut in 2014, which saw 11 different winners claiming prize money, IMSA and Microsoft are excited to offer the award once again in 2015.

Visual Studio has also partnered with IMSA in the development of the new IMSA mobile application that was officially launched in May. The partnership and details about the new mobile platform are available at https://teamtowin.net/get-the-business-story/.

The Team to Win program includes a cash prize to be awarded to the leading vote getters following each event. The next set of nominees, chosen from the 2015 IMSA race weekend at Lime Rock Park, demonstrated exceptional teamwork on one of North America's most famous circuits.

The nominees are:

1. PR1/Mathiasen Motorsports
2. Turner Motorsport
3. CJ Wilson Racing
4. Murillo Racing

Fans can vote once per day through 12 p.m. ET Friday, August 7, 2015 at http://bit.ly/1S8SLxO. The winner will be announced at Road America this weekend. Details on the award and on each selected team can also be found at teamtowin.net.
