The minivan series produced by Ford started with the Aerostar and moved eventually to the Windstar. The mid 1980s addition of the van series competed directly with GMC and Dodge to expand vehicle sales in the U.S. Millions of these Ford vans were sold to buyers and many remain in use.

The online addition of this rebuilt engine type is expected to provide one additional resource to locate these motors.

New warranty terms have been applied to the in stock inventory at the RemanufacturedEnginesforSale.com website. These terms are designed to help provide an extended coverage period of time to all buyers of the inventory that is offered. The new 36-month coverage term is now applied to all orders online and offline.

A brand new quote system is helping to deliver pricing for the new 4.0 engine as well as the other variants in stock. This quote form can be used during and after business hours by buyers that require immediate pricing.
