Palo Alto, CA (PRWEB) March 27, 2005 -- A new study reveals that a helpful staff, clean grounds, and a swimming pool are the three qualities most often cited by RVers as reasons that they like an RV park. Lower on the list are free wireless Internet access and a shuttle service to nearby attractions.

The study was conducted by RVShark.com, a website that has been praised by publications as diverse as Forbes Magazine and Woodall's Campground Management.

RVShark.com analyzed opinions submitted by RVers between January 2004 and March 2005. Only United States RV parks that received mostly favorable reviews were considered. RVShark.com identified eighty distinct attributes cited by guests. The complete list may be viewed online, at the <http://www.rvshark.com/032405.htm> Internet address.
