AMSOIL Inc. and Wappman Motorsports are contingency sponsors of the sixth annual Kumho Tires 12 Hours at Summit Point to be held this Saturday, June 5, 2004, in Summit Point, West Virginia.

(PRWEB) June 4, 2004 --AMSOIL Inc. and Wappman Motorsports are a contingency sponsor of the sixth annual Kumho Tires 12 Hours at Summit Point to be held this Saturday, June 5, 2004, in Summit Point, West Virginia. Wappman Motorsports is a dealer of AMSOIL Inc., a leader in synthetic lubricants.

"We are pleased to offer this sponsorship for The Kumho Tires 12 Hours at the Point," said Bruce Wappman, owner of Wappman Motorsports and driver of the company's Plymouth Neon.

"I have been a team owner and driver in the event for the past three years, and I am excited about providing an incentive to the 50 plus teams that will be competing in this year's race," adds Wappman.

Over $1500 worth of AMSOIL products will be awarded to racers and volunteer workers after the checker flag is dropped at midnight, which will conclude 12 hours of racing at the Point.

"It takes a large number of people to organize and run this great event. I wanted to offer them a thank you," said Wappman, referring to the 200 plus volunteers who help to put on the event.

This grueling once-around-the-clock race is the longest perennially held amateur endurance event sanctioned by Sports Car Club of America (SCCA).

"SCCA Club racing drivers are not accustomed to prize money or contingency prizes," said Wappman. "I know that the entrants in this year's event will be very pleased to see that AMSOIL and the other sponsors have stepped up to offer prizes."

Since its creation of the first synthetic motor oil in 1972, AMSOIL has gone on to develop the most complete line of synthetic lubricants and automotive products in the world. The history of AMSOIL product innovations is a checklist of industry firsts. AMSOIL sponsors all types of racing across the country including snowmobile racing, motocross, and F-1 powerboat racing.

"I will be at the race to provide technical support, and will also have some products available for purchase," said Wappman. Wappman Motorsports is dealer of AMSOIL products.
