

Stremme and the TRIMSPA® X32 Dodge® Catching no Breaks in New Hampshire

After pitting off sequence to the leaders on lap 30, Stremme restarted in the 18th position and began to gain positions again. But the battle for the thirteenth spot proved to be unlucky for Stremme, as fellow Ganassi teammate Jamie McMurray lost control beneath him and made contact with the TRIMSPA X32 Dodge. The result was a broken brake line and a flat tire on the left rear of Stremme's Dodge.

Loudon, NH (PRWEB) July 28, 2004 -- Team TRIMSPA driver David Stremme was still getting a feel for the track during his first visit to the New Hampshire International Speedway®, when he qualified 15th for Saturday's Siemens® 200. However, at the drop of the green Stremme looked like a veteran on the one-mile oval, moving up three positions to twelfth on the first lap. Stremme continued to claim spots, climbing inside the top ten by lap 15 despite a tight handling condition.

“The TRIMSPA X32 was strong all day,” said Stremme. “I was working to learn the best line around the track and felt we could run with just about anyone out there.”

After pitting off sequence to the leaders on lap 30, Stremme restarted in the 18th position and began to gain positions again. But the battle for the thirteenth spot proved to be unlucky for Stremme, as fellow Ganassi teammate Jamie McMurray lost control beneath him and made contact with the TRIMSPA X32 Dodge. The result was a broken brake line and a flat tire on the left rear of Stremme's Dodge.

“Jamie (McMurray) just drove it in too deep and got loose,” Stremme said. “He tried to correct it but ended up hitting us. It wasn't on purpose but it was unfortunate and it took the TRIMSPA Dodge out of contention for a top finish.”

After repairing the damage, Stremme returned to the track in the 33rd position five laps down. Despite being out of contention he was still posting lap times as quick as the leaders. Stremme finished 28th on the day, maintaining 18th position in the points.

“David drove extremely well but placing in the top ten every week is very difficult to achieve,” says Alex Goen, CEO of TRIMSPA. “We are looking forward to the upcoming race next weekend at Pikes Peak.”

Stremme and Team TRIMSPA look to rebound when they compete at Pikes Peak International Raceway in the Gould's Pumps® 250 on July 31st. The event will be televised live at 3:30 p.m. eastern time on TNT and nationally on radio stations affiliated with Motor Racing Network® (MRN) and XM Satellite Radio Channel 144.
