

OCD Moving Services Announces It's Increasing Health and Safety Measures For Moves During the COVID-19 Crisis

While U.S. residents and individuals across the world continue to live in times of uncertainty due to the COVID-19 crisis, top Bay Area moving company OCD Moving Services has announced it will increase its health and safety measures to protect their employees and customers during home and office moves amid the COVID-19 virus.

LOS ANGELES (PRWEB) April 16, 2020 -- While residents across the United States continue to live in uncertainty due to the COVID-19 crisis, OCD Moving Services has announced it is increasing its health and safety measures to protect its employees and customers during the COVID-19 pandemic. These trusted Bay Area movers understand that while the country seems to have come to a halt, the lives of millions of Americans must continue, and they've announced the measures they're putting into place to ensure their moves are executed safely.

“We have always ensured that our moves are carried out safely when it comes to both how we handle our clients' belongings and how we look after our employees and moving equipment,” said Daniel England, owner of OCD Moving Services. “While the COVID-19 crisis has made us all wash our hands more or give our countertops an extra scrub every day, our team at OCD Moving Services has remained only more committed to the health and safety practices we employ all year-round. We want business owners and families alike to know that we are here for them and all of their moving needs during this time of uncertainty.”

England has also announced that health and safety measures being put into place including gloves and masks provided to OCD Moving Services employees for every move. OCD Moving Services employees are also practicing social distancing and continuing to use mattress and box spring covers during every move—a tactic they originally employed to fight the bed bug epidemic. Additionally, England announced OCD Moving Services is continuing to monitor the temperatures for all employees and ensure they're sent home if they develop any symptoms that may be of or related to the COVID-19 virus.

“It's been fairly easy for us to incorporate what we do into the situation here,” said England in a post on the company's Instagram page today.

As one of the Bay Area's top moving companies, OCD Moving Services has been helping families and businesses with local and long-distance moves for more than five years. Their customer satisfaction rate and track record for executing efficient, safe and healthy moves have made them one of the most sought-after moving companies in the Bay Area. Their commitment to ensuring the safety of both their clients and their staff is what keeps them going during these tough times, and is what keeps them among the most in-demand moving services in both Southern and Northern California.

Aside from long-distance local moves, OCD Moving Services also provides professional packing services, junk removal services, free shrink wrap, and complementary TV protection and a wardrobe for use during all moves. OCD Moving Services is the Bay Area's most trusted moving company, and their goal during the COVID-19 virus to keep their employees and their customers safe.
